PROJECTS

Project week

Web development degree

In groups of four for a week, we developed a website owned by a fictional cooperative. The producers post the products they offer for sale. Customers can then place an order. It is then up to the cooperative to manage payments and deliveries. We used Git, Slim 4, Docker and Sass.

Application to help with sports betting

Personal project

This project is currently under development. The first iteration aims to allow users to register their bets (bet amount, date, odds, win/loss, ...). Then, they will have access to their statistics curves. A second iteration will allow them to subscribe to other users, to share and comment their different predictions
